Terrebonne General Health System Announces Promotion of Cory Leonard to Vice President of Financial Services

Houma, LA—Terrebonne General Health System announces the promotion of Cory Leonard to Vice President of Financial Services. In his new role, Leonard, a lifetime resident of Houma, will oversee financial operations across the health system and assist with financial guidance on initiatives to ensure continued growth and stability.

Leonard previously served as Assistant Vice President of Finance, providing critical leadership in budgeting and financial planning, and financial strategy. Leonard's nearly 30 years of prior experience also include serving as Physician Practice Finance Director, General Accounting and Centralized Billing Office Manager at Terrebonne General Health System, as well as Director of Business Services at Cardiovascular Institute of the South.

Leonard earned a Bachelor of Science degree in Accounting from Nicholls State University. He holds a Louisiana Certified Public Accountant license and designation from the American College of Medical Practice Executives as a Certified Medical Practice Executive.

"Cory has been an instrumental part of our leadership team. His financial expertise, commitment, and vision will help us continue to provide a stable platform for high-quality, accessible healthcare to our community," said Phyllis Peoples, President and CEO.

This promotion reflects Terrebonne General Health System's commitment to fostering leadership from within and supporting long-term growth
